Mysuru, June 21(MTY&NNN)- The magic numbers '54,101' will fill with pride and swell the chest of each and every participant at the 3rd International Day of Yoga, in the magnificent surroundings of Mysore Race Course at the foot of Chamundi Hill. It will also answer the question — Will Mysuru race to break the Guinness World Record?

After the United Nations unanimously declared an International Day for Yoga, the record was set at New Delhi in the first year itself in 2015 when 35,985 people performed yoga at Rajpath and Prime Minister Narendra Modi himself led the performance for 35 minutes.

The efforts of the District Administration led by Deputy Commissioner D. Randeep and his dedicated team working hard, planning and putting into place every minute detail to break this record seems to have paid off.

It was literally a dream come true as Mysuru responded to the call to etch its name in the Guinness World Record trying to beat the one set in Delhi. The enthusiasm, the commitment, the zeal of the organisers seemed to have rubbed off on the yoga enthusiasts as they started gathering at the venue as early as 4.30 am.

The whole area was floodlit at that hour and there was a glow and a halo around the 139.30 acres sprawling Race Course. As the dawn approached the sun rays started filtering through the many trees and spreading its light all round the venue. The cool breeze blowing added to the ethereal atmosphere of the day.

People started arriving in full yoga gear carrying yoga mats, jamkhanas, towels as it was a pre-condition to create the record. There were seven gates in all and by 6 am the crowd started swelling at entry gates. Anywhere between 1000 to 1500 yoga enthusiasts were seen at each of the six gates while Gate-7, exclusively reserved for VIPs, saw them entering slowly.

Each and every one was given bar-coded ticket as they entered. It was a joyful sight to see the school children as well as the senior citizens entering the venue with great zeal.

By 6.30 am, the practise session had begun with breathing exercises. After the beating of Nagari (drums) by District incharge Minister Dr. H.C. Mahadevappa and the speeches by the chief guests, the three yoga instructors Nagabushan, Kalaji and Raghunath led the demonstration as 19 asanas and pranayama were performed for about 40 minutes.

GOOD NEWS FOR STUDENTS !
HOW TO IMPROVE MEMORY & CONCENTRATION
Normally students study 3-4 hrs per day, but they forget everything during the examination. The major reason for this is the method they adopt to study. If they study using Creative Study Method (CSM) they can remember 90% of what they study forever, says National record holder and memory specialist Mr. S. PRASHANTH By adopting CSM, many ordinary students have scored extraordinary marks.

Mysuru, Wednesday 21st June 2017

Yoga spell continues

Mysuru is agog this week having hosted the historic event of World Yoga Day (June 21), mainly to lay claim to Guinness Record of organising more than 60,000 participants at a single venue performing 21 asanas, a selection from the list of asanas that has come down from Sage Pathanjali, whose yogasutras date back to more than 22 centuries. Unmindful of whether yoga is a religion or philosophy or ideology, people at large have taken to practice of asanas seeking physical, mental and spiritual wellness. Hordes of aspirants of the ancient discipline from the West have virtually conquered the city, transforming Mysuru into the nation's yoga hub. In the process, other legacies inherited by the current generation such as ayurveda, naturopathy, meditation and so on have got stumped by the all-pervading yoga bug. The era of imparting the necessary skills for performing the asanas as a service to humanity has yielded place to the current times of spinning money in enviable amounts by teachers of all hues.

Royalty of the erstwhile Princely State of Mysore is credited with extending patronage to a humble teacher of the ancient discipline whose student, also a close relation of the master, established his school of yoga in Pune some eight decades ago from where there was no looking back. There is hardly any country with literates in the population where yoga is either not known or practised.

Keeping slim and trim is more talked about in sections of society marked by sophistication, who take pride in letting their friends and relatives know about their secret of keeping well by practicing yoga and adhering to ayurveda. While yoga continues to cast its spell on both its current practitioners and those toying with plans for falling in line, ayurveda has just rattled the players in the world of allopathy. Vested interests in the West, fearing loss of market for their drugs have begun to raise voices mainly on issues of lack of scientific evidence for the health benefits from the system, absence of standards for the products and quackery dominating ayurveda practice. As if to add insult to injury, a medical practitioner from Pune has taken upon himself to issue an advisory for pregnant women to eschew meat, eggs, anger, desire and lust in order that they don't give birth to children with stunted growth. He has dared the authorities of the Union AYUSH Ministry by slamming its recently issued recommendations on what expectant mothers should or shouldn't do to have healthy babies.

While the debate on diet of women bearing child gathers pace, another issue concerning obesity of populations across the world has figured in an article recently published in a peer-reviewed science journal, saying more than 10 per cent are obese globally. India's response to that claim could be that yoga addresses the problem of big build and ayurveda addresses the issue of bearing normal children.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Gujaratis are puzzled. Why are other Indians offended by Gandhi being called a 'chatur Baniya', as he was by Amit Shah? Gandhi was a Baniya after all. Are they upset by 'chatur', my mother asked. Chatur means shrewd, alert and astute. It is also tinged with the flavour of cunning. It is a quality seen with admiration, though difficult to emulate since it is carried essentially through culture. The qualities of the Baniya, including but not limited to chaturai, are legend. The Gujarati Kahevatkosh, or book of sayings, has two pages of one-liners on Baniyas. My favourite is the shortest: Vaniya mooch neechi. Meaning that the Baniya wears his moustache with the ends turned down limp. Not twirled up in tumescent fashion like the warrior's moustache. The Baniya sees no material benefit in honour, and because of that, chasing it is a total waste of his time. This is a phenomenal cultural lesson. It is too sophisticated for a primitive, soldier-worshipping nation. — Aakar Patel in The Times of India.

"Prince of Montenegro"

Podgorica: A 57-year-old Italian conman was recently arrested and charged with fraud and document forgery, after it was revealed that he had been posing as a member of the Montenegro Royal Family for years. His con was so elaborate that he had even managed to fool many real royals and celebrities.

The man, whose real identity has not yet been revealed, called himself "His Imperial and Royal Highness Stefan Cernetic, Hereditary Prince of Montenegro, Serbia and Albania," and claimed to be a descendant of the Roman emperor Constantine, and the head of the Montenegrin royal family. He travelled all around Europe and stayed in luxury hotels free of charge. On his website, Prince Cernetic described himself as "the head of the family that ruled Montenegro, Albania and Serbia from the 16th century to the second half of the 18th century," and displayed "family trees, illustrations of medals, seals." It all looked impressive, but according to Italian Police officers who busted him says that it was all just "nonsense."

Story of alarm clock!

Harrisburg: Every day, a homeowner in Pennsylvania is reminded of a mistake he made 13 years ago. At around 8 in the evening, his otherwise peaceful house comes alive with the beeping of an alarm clock he accidentally dropped down a vent over a decade ago. It's been stuck in the wall ever since.

Jerry Lynn, of Ross Township, Pennsylvania, wanted to punch a whole through his living room wall, so he could pas the television cable through it, without puncturing the wall, he came up with a brilliant idea to ensure that he was drilling in an unobstructed place. He grabbed his alarm clock, tied it to a string and programmed it to go off in 10 minutes. His goal was to drill near the place where the ringing was coming from. It all went according to plan, until the alarm clock fell into the wall.

Try as he might, the man couldn't retrieve the alarm clock, but figured it would probably run out of battery in three or four months, so he wasn't too worried about it. That was in September 2004, but 13 years later, the alarm clock still rings every day, at 10 minutes to 8 in the evening during daylight savings time, and ten minutes to seven, during standard time.

VOICE OF THE READER

Dr. S.L. Bhyrappa's social commitment

Sir,

After hearing Dr. S. L. Bhyrappa at the Mysuru Literary Fest on Sunday, my thoughts went back to the days when he participated in some of the protests MGP held for public causes.

Let me share a few instances of Bhyrappa's activism that I have witnessed. The first time I met Dr. Bhyrappa was during the election for Mysore Legislative Assembly in which I was contesting as an independent in 1995.

I was going from house to house seeking votes and also asking voters to buy my booklet, "Decline and Fall of Mysore: Who is responsible?" I was selling the booklet to raise money from voters to finance my election while some candidates were giving money to buy votes.

Dr. Bhyrappa's was one of the houses I visited in Saraswathipuram. I requested him to vote for me and also asked him if he could help me by buying a book. In response, he gave me an envelope with a Rs. 500 note while the price of the book was just Rs. 10. In addition, he offered to support my candidacy by giving a press release stating reasons for his support.

Dr. Bhyrappa was one of the very few intellectuals who felt that honest professionals should be supported if one were to cleanse politics. I had appealed to several well-known authors, professors and important personalities in Mysore. Many of them appreciated the fact that I was contesting but refused to come out publicly to support me or my cause.

Last year when MGP started "Save Chamundi" campaign, one of the intellectuals to come forward to get involved in the campaign was Dr. Bhyrappa. At 9 in the night he called MGP Office seeking assistance to deliver a press note written by him in support of the campaign. His letter generated immense support to "Save Chamundi" campaign.

When a protest was organised by Let's Do It Mysore! at the foot of Chamundi Hill early in the morning, Bhyrappa enthusiastically participated in it. What was even more interesting was his participation in the public meeting held at Institution of Engineers. This event was to debate the so-called development atop the Hill. Bhyrappa participated even though he was neither a chief guest nor an invited speaker. This speaks about his social commitment.

Bill to regulate private hospitals referred to Joint Select Committee

Bengaluru, June 21- The Karnataka Private Medical Establishments (Amendment) Bill 2017 that seeks to empower the Government to fix rates for various procedures in private hospitals was yesterday referred to the Joint Select Committee of the State Legislature as many members wanted the Government to tread "cautiously" on the issue.

Interestingly, almost all MLAs who opposed the Bill were medical doctors by profession. They opposed the Bill in its present form and suggested to the Government to conduct wider consultations in this regard.

Opposition BJP and a few senior members from the ruling Congress expressed reservations over certain provisions of the Bill though they welcomed its "spirit and intentions." The Joint Select Committee has been tasked to examine all provisions of the Bill within a month.

Participating in a discussion on the Bill in the Assembly, Dr. A.B. Maalakaraddy (Congress) said doctors were already working under immense pressure. Vested interests will make use of the Bill to harass them. It will become impossible for doctors to function if their concerns are not addressed, he warned.

"The Bill has created an atmosphere of fear. The Government should tread cautiously in this regard. We must do it without hurting the sentiments of the doctors...The Minister (Health Minister K.R. Ramesh Kumar) should not get emotional. His intentions are good," Maalakaraddy, who is a former Health Minister, stated.

Dr. Shivaraj Patil (JD-S) warned that doctors will not be able to function if the Bill is given effect in its present form.

Dr. C.N. Ashwath Narayan (BJP) suggested that the Government hold consultations with doctors and address their concerns. Otherwise, the Government will not be able to protect the interests of the poor patients.

Besides, BJP MLA S. Suresh Kumar said that there are a lot of apprehensions about the Bill. Incidents of attacks on doctors have increased of late. Nobody doubts the Government's intentions. But it should not result in unnecessary harassment of doctors, he added.

Health Minister Ramesh Kumar clarified that the Bill was trying to regulate only private medical establishments and not their professionals/doctors. "We are trying to rein in employers not employees," he remarked. The Minister referred to instances of hospitals refusing to handover bodies of patients to their relatives before clearing dues.

Pointing out that the Government had set aside Rs. 1,022 crore for medical services under various schemes, he said nearly 80% of these funds were being given to private hospitals. "It is our duty to ensure that private hospitals do not overcharge," he said. Offering to withdraw the provisions for imprisonment of those flouting the law, Kumar pointed out that the Penal provisions were more stringent in West Bengal.

JANTHAKAL MINING CASE

SIT told not to arrest H.D. Kumaraswamy till June 28

Kumaraswamy

Bengaluru, June 21- The Karnataka High Court yesterday extended its interim order directing the Special Investigation Team (SIT) probing illegal mining cases not to arrest former Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy till June 28, the next date of hearing.

The Court, however, allowed the SIT to interrogate the former CM. Special Public Prosecutor for the Lokayukta's SIT P. Govindan informed the HC that they need to do custodial interrogation of Kumaraswamy in the Janthakal mining case. He said that the SIT would submit a case diary which has confidential information that requires Kumaraswamy's custody.

Justice Rathnakala asked him if the offence committed is economic in nature, why the High Court has to come in between the trial Court proceedings. He said that he will submit the case diary of the case in the next hearing and sought adjournment. The Judge adjourned the next hearing to June 28.

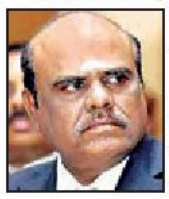
Govindan said that Kumaraswamy used the office of the CM to pressure and influence an officer to pass certain orders. He said that Kumaraswamy had issued an ultimatum to accused IAS Officer Gangaram Baderia, who was then posted as the Director, Mines and Geology, to issue mining licence in two hours to Janthakal Enterprises, a company owned by mining baron Vinod Goel.

The SIT has registered a case against Kumaraswamy after he was named by Baderia. He has been booked for cheating, forgery, criminal breach of trust and giving false information, criminal conspiracy under the IPC sections. Kumaraswamy has also been booked under the provisions of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 and The Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Act, 1957.

Kumaraswamy's advocate Hashmath Pasha submitted that same allegations were made against his client in two other complaints. He said three separate complaints have been registered, of which one has been quashed by the High Court. He contended that when Kumaraswamy was the CM, he had not pressured Baderia to issue mining licence in favour of Goel.

He said iron ore was legally extracted since the Forest Department denied permission to lift the ore that was mined. It is neither lifted nor sold and is still lying in the mining area of Chikkajajur in Chitradurga district.

Retired Judge C.S. Karnan arrested in Coimbatore after a month in hiding



Karnan

Coimbatore, June 21- Almost six weeks after the Supreme Court ordered his arrest for Contempt of Court, former High Court Judge C.S. Karnan, who retired last week, was arrested yesterday at Tamil Nadu's Coimbatore by the West Bengal Police. He was flown to Chennai and likely to be brought to Kolkata today and sent to Presidency Jail.

Justice (retired) Karnan is the first ever sitting High Court Judge to have had an arrest warrant issued against and sentenced to a jail term. The Supreme Court also ordered that his "mental health" be examined before it ordered his arrest on May 9. Justice (retired) Karnan, 62, repeatedly claimed that he was been victimised because he was a Dalit.

Transferred last year from Chennai to Kolkata, Justice (retired) Karnan had written to the Prime Minister and President in January accusing several Judges of corruption.

In response, the Supreme Court issued a suo moto contempt case against him and summoned him to appear before a Seven-Judge Bench headed by the Chief Justice of India, Justice J.S. Khehar.

The top Court also ordered Calcutta High Court to not assign any case to Justice Karnan. No Judicial Body was to recognise his orders, it said. What followed was unprecedented. For every order issued by Supreme Court, Justice Karnan passed a counter order, even, at one point, ordering the arrest of the top Court Judges. He also refused to undergo any mental health tests saying, "I am fine, I am normal."

When the Supreme Court ordered his arrest, Justice Karnan flew off to Chennai before the West Bengal Police could catch him, held a press meet there and then disappeared. His associates were mum on his whereabouts. A Police team from Kolkata camped in Chennai for weeks, in vain. Yesterday, finally, he was tracked down to Coimbatore and arrested, ending, at least for now, an ignominious chapter in India's Judicial history.

Tipper brings down electric pole

Mysuru, June 21 (SBD&KS)- A tipper, which was proceeding on JLB Road, brought down an electric pole and snapped live wires along with it here yesterday. Luckily, no injuries or fatalities have been reported.

The tipper, belonging to the Railway Department, was proceeding from Ramaswamy Circle towards Metropole Circle when the dumping bed of the tipper accidentally lifted near MUDA office and the electric wire got tangled to it. As the tipper tugged the wire, it resulted in an electric pole coming down snapping live wires in the process. As an electric component automatically shut the flow of electric current, the tipper driver escaped without a scratch. Though the movement of traffic on the road would usually be high, there was very less movement of vehicles and pedestrians during the time of the mishap. K.R. Traffic Police, who rushed to the spot, placed barricades and diverted the vehicles. CESC staff took up the repair works.

Pet Talk

Maneka Gandhi

In this week's Pet Talk, Maneka explains the reasons behind cats sitting somewhere completely out of reach.

My cat is always sitting somewhere completely out of reach for me. Why?

In order to survive in the wild, animals are constantly learning how to adapt to their environment. When animals are domesticated, many of these survival traits persist.

One thing many cat owners have noticed is that their felines often seem to gravitate toward higher perches.

Why do so many felines like to survey their world from on high? To answer this question, it's important to understand that cats are both predator and prey. They are predators to smaller prey, such as rabbits, rodents and birds, to name a few. However, they are also themselves prey to larger predators, such as owls and eagles from the air and dogs on the ground. Staying in a high location provides a cat with a better vantage point to spot prey and predator alike. If a cat goes up into a tree's branches, she can evade larger carnivores that cannot climb trees. Cats can also sleep in higher places with decreased risk of getting hunted or surprised. Cats that hide in trees are also taking advantage of leaves and branches that provide the perfect camouflage to protect the cat from flying predators.

Adult cats also use their climbing ability to avoid potentially confrontational interactions with other members of their own species. Mother cats may also do this to avoid their kittens, especially during weaning time. It may depend on how busy, or quiet, your household is. Your cat most likely wants to keep an eye on her environment and increase the likelihood that she will not be disturbed. Some cats, for example, have learned to stay on top of the refrigerator because it is an area of low traffic but high visibility and it can be warm. Even when she is no longer scared, your cat may learn to associate that high place — the refrigerator, the top of the book case, the staircase top — with safety, peace and comfort.

Why do dogs tilt/cock their heads to one side at times?

Your dog hears something — a mysterious sound, a smartphone ring, a certain tone of voice — and suddenly her head tilts to one side, as if she is figuring out what it is. The head tilt might actually signify your dog's attempt to make sense of what she hears. Some experts believe that dogs tilt their heads when they think there is a possibility that what is being said could lead to something important to the dog. So your dog may cock her head when you start talking about taking her for a walk or giving her a bath or playing a game of fetch — whatever it is that she loves to do.

Dogs have movable ear-flaps that help them locate the source of a sound. In addition to moving their ears, dogs' brains compute extremely small time differences between the sound reaching each ear. Even the slightest change in the dog's head position, relative to the sound, supplies information the dog's brain uses to figure out the distance of the sound. So, when a dog cocks her head, she could be trying to more accurately determine the exact location of a sound, specifically the height, relative to the ears.

Put these elements together and it seems pretty likely that dogs naturally engage in this behaviour and then repeat it when reinforced. If the dog is praised by the owner for cocking her head, she will be more likely to cock her head in the future. While it's easy to assume something as cute as your dog tilting her head at you is always benign, it is important to speak with your veterinarian about any behaviour that could have a medical cause, including a head tilt. A dog that consistently, or even intermittently, holds its head to the side, especially without an obvious external trigger present, may have a medical problem. These types of health issues range from brain disease, inflammation, cancer, etc., to an ear problem such as infection, lodged foreign object or some other mass.

My dog is given two full proper meals and small tit-bits in between, yet he is always hungry. Why so?

In most cases, the behaviour is considered absolutely normal. Dogs have been carrying on about getting food from humans for millennia. In fact, one leading theory, about how dogs first became domesticated, claims that it was directly tied to getting at those leftovers.

It should come as no surprise to most owners that canines can be expert manipulators of human behaviour. There are plenty of dogs who know exactly what it takes to wheedle that bit of carrot from you.

Other canine behaviourists link big dog appetites to biology, suggesting that dogs are simply listening to their gut, just like their wild cousins. Food is a limited resource, so when you can get to it you shouldn't stop eating, because you never know if it will be your last meal for days.

Another theory states that some dogs are simply remembering what it feels like to truly starve. After all, plenty of dogs come in from the cold as rescued pets, after significant periods of malnutrition and chronic lack of food.

There are some dogs who legitimately suffer from endocrine and gastrointestinal ailments, that can lead to outsized appetites. Diabetes, Cushing's Disease, hyperthyroidism (rare in dogs) and some pancreatic disorders are all potentially responsible for a desire to eat.

Why does my dog lick his wounds?

If you lacked opposable thumbs, and didn't have access to cleansers and disinfectants, you'd probably lick yourself clean after an injury, too. That's what canine tongues and saliva are designed to do.

I've read that canine and feline saliva (ours too!) also contain compounds that aid in healing. Is that true?

This is what spit has:

i. The enzymes lysozyme and peroxidase help destroy the cell walls of gram-positive bacteria.

ii. Lactoferrin, defensins and cystatins have antibacterial qualities.

iii. Thrombospondin is considered antiviral.

iv. A protease inhibitor in saliva has been shown to promote wound healing.

v. Nitrate compounds break down into nitric oxide upon contact with the skin, thus inhibiting bacterial growth.

vi. Growth factors, such as epidermal growth factor, can promote healing.

vii. Opiorphin is a pain reliever.

Of course, licking isn't always a good thing. Pets can get obsessed with licking, and create wounds. Dog saliva has enzymes that kill off bacteria, and when a dog licks himself, it helps to get rid of dead tissue, and cleans dirt from wounds. Some dogs, however, just can't stop themselves and may actually reopen wounds, or cause other kinds of harm through excessive licking. Sometimes it's hard to tell whether licking is getting out of control or just a normal canine drive, so here's a simple rule of thumb: If there's any evidence of a wound, hair loss or even thinning of the fur, continual licking of the area is considered excessive.

PM Modi leads Yoga Day celebrations in Lucknow

Lucknow, June 21- "Yoga, akin to its capacity to unite the body, mind and soul, has played a 'big role' in binding the world, cutting across linguistic and cultural barriers," said Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

Addressing a huge gathering at Ramabai Ambedkar Maidan on the occasion of the 3rd International Yoga Day celebrations today, he also asserted that the traditional practice has now become part of every person's life.

"Many countries which do not know our language, tradition, or culture, are now connecting to India through Yoga. The practice, which connects body, mind and soul, has played a big role in binding the world too," he said.

Donning a white T-shirt and loose trousers, Modi also performed asanas along with over 50,000 yoga enthusiasts braving early morning drizzles.

"Earlier, Yoga was only restricted to saints and seers in the Himalayan mountains. Now, it has become part of every person's life," he said. He also asserted that attaining 'wellness' through yoga was more important than simply being physically fit.

"It is not important to perform yoga for 24 hours. 50 or 60 minutes (is fine) because it lends harmony to the body, mind and intellect. If 1.25 billion Indians and people around the world can attain this state of well-being, then humankind can also tide over problems born out of human thoughts," he said.

He also explained the importance of Yoga using an analogy of salt. "Just as the importance of salt is not only to lend taste to food, but also ensure well-being of the body, similarly Yoga can have the same importance as salt has in life," the PM said.

He said yoga is about health assurance. "It is not even expensive to practice," he added.

"I urge everyone to make yoga a part of their lives," he said, adding that he was glad to see several yoga institutes take shape over the last three years.

Uttar Pradesh Governor Ram Naik and Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath joined the Prime Minister in performing yoga at the sprawling venue. Adityanath thanked Modi for enhancing Yoga's reputation globally.

Three years ago, Modi had persuaded the United Nations to declare June 21 as International Yoga Day. Since then, thousands of people hold yoga programmes across the world on this day. A tight security cordon was put in place around the venue, while all major roads were under strict CCTV vigil.

Callous relatives grab pension, fail to turn up at woman's funeral

Padmavathi

Mysuru, June 21 (NNN)- An elderly woman, whose name was known, but sadly counted in the 'Missing Person' list is the story of most of the aged in the country today. Padmavathi (75) passed away in city on June 14. However, she did not die a lonely, neglected person. Thanks to the humanitarian work being carried out by M.S. Sushma, Founder-Director of Jana Seva Trust that has established Chiguru for the mentally challenged women and destitute women and children.

The saga of Padmavathi began last year, when she was brought to a hospital in Kuvempunagar, by her callous relatives in May 2016. They escaped leaving her in the lurch. After a few days of treatment in the hospital, the authorities there got in touch with Sushma, who shifted the old woman to her Centre.

"Padmavathi was doing quite well. She had been with us from November last year. Meanwhile, I got a call from the Bank Manager in Tumakuru enquiring whether a person by name Padmavathi was with us. I said yes. The Manager then told me that her pension was being drawn every month by people claiming to be her relatives," said Sushma, speaking to Star of Mysore.

The Jana Seva Trust is located in Koorgalli close to Excel Public School. The relatives were drawing money as they had blank signed cheques of the woman. Padmavathi, a graduate, used to teach in a private school in Tumakuru. Her husband was a freedom fighter. After he passed away, she used to get his pension.

Sushma then took Padmavathi to Tumakuru to sign the 'living certificate,' and from then on she got pension every month.

On June 14, she had a wheezing bout and when Sushma tried to shift Padmavathi to the hospital, she breathed her last. The body was kept in K.R. Hospital mortuary, waiting for her relatives to turn up. Meanwhile, Sushma lodged a complaint with Vijayanagar Police Station. They in turn released a press note of missing person's death.

Finally, when no relative turned up, Padmavathi's body was cremated at the burial ground on Jodi Tenginamara Road. Human Rights activist Jana Sangram State Secretary Prasanna and Vijayanagar Police personnel were present.

Sushma

The work done by M.S. Sushma and her team is laudable.

Before the start of yoga demonstration, MP Pratap Simha read out the oath related to clean city. He read out about the promise to segregate wet and dry waste and putting the wet waste in green bins and dry waste in blue bins.

As the Guinness record demanded a steward for every 50 participant, there were 1,258 stewards, 2,000 volunteers including students from Sports Hostel and 170 yoga instructors. B.P. Murthy read out the oath (Sankalpa) and Dr. Ganesh Kumar blew the conch, sounding the beginning of the record-breaking attempt. The NCC cadets were also seen sitting in the area marked for them. Students from Morarji Desai Residential School and Kittur Rani Chenamma School in and around Mysuru also participated.

The types of asanas performed included Tadasana, Vrikshasana, Padahastasana, Ardhachakrasana, Trikonasana, Bhadrasana, Vajrasana, Ardhaushtrasana, Ushstrasana, Shashankasana, Vakrasana, Makarasana, Sarala Bhujangasana, Bhujangasana and Shavasana. The asanas were performed from 7 am to 9.10 am.

After the asanas, the Pranayama, Dhyana (meditation) and Sankalpa lasted for about 17 to 18 minutes. The Pranayama included Kapala Bati, Nadishoda Pranayama, Sheetali Pranayama, Brahmini Pranayama, followed by Dhyana.

Minister Dr. Mahadevappa said, "It is indeed a very proud and heartening moment to see such a mass of humanity at one place. Yoga should be a part of everyone's life to keep the body and mind alert all the time."

Union Minister D.V. Sadananda Gowda said, "Prime Minister Narendra Modi was instrumental in taking yoga to the world stage after the United Nations declared the International Day of Yoga. Nearly 175 nations supported and now it has swelled to 192 nations who are participating on this day."

The scion of the royal family Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar said, "I am very happy to be a part of this record-breaking attempt and hope that with this we will be on the international map."

DC Randeep said, "The one-month-long effort has finally paid off. When we started planning we wanted to do it in Mysore Palace, which could accommodate about 15,000 to 20,000 people. But with the encouragement from the team we started dreaming big. This propelled us to think of shifting the venue if we had to break the record. Hence, the Mysore Race Course was chosen that could accommodate even 75,000 people. We have realised our dream and with the record of 54,101 people, I am confident of setting the Guinness record."

Asked about spending Rs. 50 lakh, he said, "This money is truly well spent and once we set the record, it will put Mysuru on the international map. This in turn will boost tourism, which will become a revenue earner." Even Union Minister Sadananda Gowda echoing Randeep's sentiments said, "It is not the question of spending Rs. 50 lakh but one has to look at the health benefits. Yoga is all about wellness that our Prime Minister has emphasised and Mysuru setting the trend is most welcome."

Co-operative farm loans up to Rs. 50,000 waived off

Bengaluru, June 21- A day after Reserve Bank of India (RBI) cautioned Karnataka and other States against "jumping onto the farm-loan waiver bandwagon, by observing that loan waivers impact credit discipline and vitiates credit culture", the State Government today announced that it will waive off loans taken by small and medium farmers from Co-operative and Agricultural banks.

Making an announcement at the Legislative Assembly this afternoon, Chief Minister Siddharamaiah said that the State will waive off loans up to Rs. 50,000 taken by farmers from all Co-operative, Agricultural and other Co-operative Banks. "We will waive off loans that were taken till yesterday (June 20)," the CM said.

The loan waiver will benefit over 22 lakh small and medium farmers in the State and will be an additional burden of Rs. 8,165 crore on the State Exchequer, the CM added. About 23 lakh farmers have obtained farm loans totalling about Rs. 10,500 crore through Co-operative Banks. The figure is much higher for nationalised banks that have offered loans worth Rs. 42,000 crore to about 33 lakh farmers.

Huge demand for yoga courses in city

Mysuru, June 21 -Thanks to a series of yoga performances and the general awareness created on Mysuru being the International Yoga Capital, yoga courses offered by government and private institutions have found increased takers these days.

Interestingly, the courses that had fewer admissions earlier, are witnessing a lot of demand since the last two years, especially after the United Nations declared International Yoga Day on June 21.

Take for example the Government Nature Cure and Yoga College (GNCYC) in Mysuru that has been playing an important role in popularising yoga by offering courses and carrying out activities round the year. College sources told Star of Mysore that they were planning to increase the student intake from the present 25 to 60.

GNCYC is the first Government Naturopathy & Yogic Science College in Karnataka and third in India. Located on the KRS Road, opposite PKTB Sanatorium, Brindavan Extension, the institution was established in 2006 by the Government of Karnataka.

It offers yoga and naturopathy treatment procedures and is affiliated to Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences. It offers a five-year undergraduate course - Bachelor of Naturopathy and Yogic Sciences (BNYS).

College sources said that over the last two years, demand for BNYS course has gone up. The course was launched 10 years ago with an intake of four students. Gradually, the intake went up to 25 and now the plan is to increase the intake to 60. The institute will soon start a post-graduate course in yoga and naturopathy and is awaiting an approval from Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences.

The courses offered by GNCYC combines theory, practical and internship programmes and admission to the courses is through common entrance test. Learning focuses on lectures, seminars, workshop with hands-on experience in patient care.

Sources said that a team from the Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences had visited the college premises recently and only a formal approval letter is awaited for the increase in intake and to start a post-graduation course. Apart from academics, the institution has been running yoga camps for public on a regular basis.

Private yoga institutes

The demand for short-term and long term yoga courses offered by many private yoga institutions and yoga studios in city has also gone up. There are many institutions that offer yoga courses in several areas including Lakshmipuram, Gokulam, Kuvempunagar and Vijayanagar.

Following many yoga sessions in Mysuru, national and international-level publicity, there are many takers for regular yoga sessions. "Usually, people from foreign countries come to us for a short-term course that is conducted for 15 to 30 days to suit their travel schedule. Now there is constant demand for long-term courses that are conducted for 90 days or more," said a yoga studio owner in Lakshmipuram.

Usually, it is a vacation time for yoga studios and institutes in city from April to June as it is off-season. "The scene has changed now as many salaried class yoga enthusiasts from across the country, especially from metro cities, enrolling their names for yoga classes," he said and added that professionals are taking up yoga classes to bust stress.

Guinness Yoga: The other side

Traffic jams, food waste, chaos at breakfast counters and more...

Mysuru, June 21 (PM&BCT)- It was a big day for Mysuru that was attempting to break the Guinness World Record for mass yoga performance at a single venue. Mysureans got up early and headed towards the Mysore Race Club, the venue of the feat, as early as 4.30 am.

While more than 50,000 enthusiasts performed yoga peacefully inside the green Race Course, areas outside the venue witnessed massive traffic jams and indiscriminate throwing of plastic bottles at the breakfast counters set up near the entry gates.

Yoga enthusiasts were seen landing at the venue as early as 5 am from all corners of the city. They either came in their own vehicles or took over 80 KSRTC buses that ferried them from across the city. Most of the schools and colleges had arranged their own buses to take students to the venue. Participants were also seen pooling in cars to take other people to the Race Course.

Anticipating the rush, the city Police had banned the entry of private vehicles on roads around the Race Course including M.G. Road, Race Course Road, Harishchandra Road, Chamundi Hill Road from the Race Course stretch, CAR Grounds Road and Maharana Pratap Road. Though traffic jams were not witnessed early in the morning, roads surrounding the barricaded stretches witnessed bumper-to-bumper traffic after the performance ended.

Though the Police had marked several designated parking areas, confusion prevailed as the crowd started piling up at about 6.30 am. As soon as the event ended at around 10 am, several roads including JSS College Road that leads to Nanjangud, Yelethota Road, St. Mary's Circle, the surrounding roads of M.G. Road, Agrahara and roads leading to Agrahara were clogged. Traffic Police and the Home Guards manning the traffic had a tough time in controlling vehicles.

PLASTIC BOTTLES STREWN ALL OVER

The District Administration and other voluntary organisations had arranged breakfast for all the participants. Packets containing upma were distributed to yoga performers along with water bottles. Special food counters were opened at all the seven gates to the venue and food was served as the participants came out of the venue.

Long queues were witnessed in front of the food counters and volunteers had a harrowing time to ensure order. After eating the food, participants, however, threw the leftovers and water bottles at the venue instead of dumping them at designated waste bins. Heaps of waste was seen around the food counters and workers from the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) cleaned the mess later.

MAKING HAY WHEN THE SUN SHINES

Taking advantage of over 50,000 people at one venue, many advertisement companies had sent their representatives along with thousands of brochures to be distributed. These printed brochures, however, were strewn all over adding to the mess.

YOGA DAY – OTHER HIGHLIGHTS

- Participants were so excited to get their certificates that they posed for photographs.
- The usual sleepy city in the wee hours of morning was active as early as 4 am today.
- Tea stalls that usually open at 6 am in the Central Business District today opened at 5 am for the participants to take a swig and head to the venue.
- Some participants came out of the venue after performing yoga only for 15 minutes as they were late to offices and workplaces.
- Speeches delivered by VIPs at the yoga venue disappointed several participants. Some of them complained that the speeches were boring and uninspiring.
- Crowds showered praises on Deputy Commissioner D. Randeep for overall leadership of the event.
- Efforts of the Police in controlling the crowd and clearing traffic were also appreciated.

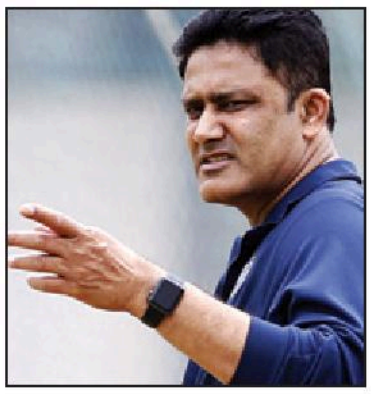
Anil Kumble steps down as Team India Head Coach

London, June 21 - All seems to be not well in the Indian men's cricket team with Anil Kumble stepping down as the Head Coach of the team. The BCCI'S Cricket Advisory Committee (CAC) comprising of Saurav Ganguly, VVS Laxman and Sachin Tendulkar had chosen their former teammate as head coach in June 2016. When the Indian team flew off to the West Indies from Heathrow yesterday morning, one prominent man was missing from the party. Kumble chose to stay back in London and attend an ICC Cricket Committee meeting which was evident he no more wanted to continue as a coach as the difference between him and Kohli has reached its pinnacle.

BCCI confirmed Kumble's resignation through social media and later also issued as press release yesterday. The BCCI said batting coach Sanjay Bangar and bowling coach R. Sridhar would work as stop-gap coaches in the Caribbean. India play their first ODI at Port of Spain on June 23. The BCCI has deputed M.V. Sridhar, GM - Cricket Operations to supervise the team management for the West Indies tour. The team did well under Kumble in the past 12 months. He was a direct entry into the coach selection process while the others who applied for the post were Virender Sehwag, Tom Moody, Richard Pybus and Lalchand Rajput and Dodda Ganesh.

Here is the full text of Kumble's letter to BCCI

I am honoured by the confidence reposed in my by the CAC, in asking me to continue as Head Coach. The credit for the achievements of the last one year goes to the captain, the entire team, coaching and support staff.



Post this intimation, I was informed for the first time yesterday by the BCCI that the Captain had reservations with my 'style' and about my continuing as the Head Coach. I was surprised since I had always respected the role boundaries between Captain and Coach. Though the BCCI attempted to resolve the misunderstandings between the Captain and me, it was apparent that the partnership was untenable, and I therefore believe it is best for me to move on.

Professionalism, discipline, commitment, honesty, complementary skills and diverse views are the key traits I bring to the table. These need to be valued for the partnership to be effective. I see the Coach's role akin to 'holding a mirror' to drive self-improvement in the team's interest.

In light of these 'reservations', I believe it is best I hand over this responsibility to whomever the CAC and BCCI deem fit.

Let me reiterate that it has been an absolutely privilege to have served as Head Coach for the last one year. I thank the CAC, BCCI, CoA and all concerned.

I also wish to thank the innumerable followers and fans of Indian cricket for their continued support. I will remain a well-wisher of the great cricketing tradition of my country forever. — Anil Kumble

WORD OF THE DAY

Duende

Pronunciation: doo-EN-day
Meaning: The power to attract through personal magnetism and charm.
Origin: The word duende refers to a spirit in Spanish, Portuguese, and Filipino folklore and literally means "ghost" or "goblin" in Spanish. It is believed to derive from the phrase dueño de casa, which means "owner of a house." The term is traditionally used in flamenco music or other art forms to refer to the mystical or powerful force given off by a performer to draw in the audience. The Spanish poet Federico Garcia Lorca wrote in his essay "Teoria y Juego del Duende" ("Play and Theory of the Duende") that duende "is a power and not a behavior ... a struggle and not a concept." Nowadays the term appears in a broader range of contexts to refer to one's unspoken charm or allure.

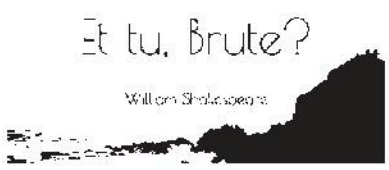
THE ODD WORD

Tabacosis

Tobacco poisoning

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Ettu, Brute



Meaning: Supposedly the last words of Julius Caesar. Literally 'And you, Brutus?'.
Origin: In 44 BC, Julius Caesar was murdered by a group of senators. They were led by Marcus Brutus, who had previously been a close friend of Caesar. There's no substantiated evidence to show that Julius Caesar spoke those words. They come to us via Shakespeare's play Julius Caesar which, like many of his history plays, tends to massage historical record somewhat for dramatic effect. In the play Caesar begins to resist the attack but resigns himself to his fate when he sees that his friend is amongst the plotters:
Cobbe family portrait of William ShakespeareCaesar: Doth not Brutus bootless kneel?
Casca: Speak, hands, for me! [They stab Caesar.]
Caesar: Ettu, Brute? Then fall, Caesar! [Dies.]
Cinna: Liberty! Freedom! Tyranny is dead!
